Working with Developers

UX Designers have to work with UI Designers & Development team to ensure that product development is inline with the features and functions user really need.

Also you need to keep in check that Users and Stakeholders goals are also met

Early Working Prototypes (Alpha Beta versions)

Before launching a fully functional product, your development team might develop an alpha version or half functional version of your product

UX Designers need to test it with few users to see that everything is in line.

Early problems can be fixed easily with very low cost

Development Stage- FrokLand

In my case of FrokLand, i selected a WordPress theme as a starting point that was close to my specs and let Developers fit it to my needs. (or Shopify)

But before my Developers put 100s of products on it or put it online. I want to test it with few users to see if there are any changes i can make quickly and easily
